

Culver Square

- Culver Square is at the center of a planned new entertainment and retail development in the heart of Culver City. Formerly a through street, the site now functions as a parking lot and small sculpture garden. Suisman Urban Design was asked by Culver City to develop an overall concept for the site. The proposal envisions a major public square, prominently bordered by the landmark Culver Hotel. The square, equipped with fountains and performance areas, will serve as an outdoor setting for daily activity as well as special civic and cultural events. It will be approached through four distinct gardens, each with its own character, that link the square to rest of the city.
